LOWER RECAP TIRE QUOTAS

Jeffers Calls For Strict Adherence To Conservation Regulations

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Rubber Director William M. Jeffers today called for "strict adherence" during the next few months to tire conservation regulations, and the Office of Price Administration put force to his words by sharply reducing the number of low-mileage passenger car owners eligible for used and recapped tires.

Jeffers advised OPA that only 500,000 used and recapped tires will be available for rationing in July, a reduction of 300,000 from June.

Beginning July 1, and probably for a period of 90 days while supplies of used tires are being put into serviceable condition, the eligibility of drivers with mileage rations of 240 miles or less a month will be determined by these standards:

In the eastern gasoline shortage area, where an "A" book is good for 90 miles, drivers who hold only an "A" book cannot get replacements. They can still have their present tires recapped without getting rationing certificates.

Outside the shortage area, where the "A" book provides 240 miles a month, the applicant must show he used his car for essential purposes.

Present regulations make all low-mileage drivers eligible for used or recapped tires. Regulations for drivers with monthly mileage rations exceeding 240 miles were not changed.

Jeffers said that while synthetic rubber now is being produced, there will be some delay in fabricating it into passenger car tires because of the shortage of facilities, equipment and manpower. He said he hoped in time to have such a supply that "most if not all existing regulations" could be removed sometime next year.

At the same time, Price Administrator Prentiss Brown disclosed that reductions in the values of A, B and C gasoline coupons will be unchanged for the present.

Italian Port Of Leghorn Set Ablaze By Fortresses

(By Associated Press)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, June 29.—One hundred Flying Fortresses flying roundtrip more than 1,100 miles smashed the northern Italian port of Leghorn with several hundred tons of bombs yesterday, damaging a light cruiser and four supply ships and creating havoc in oil tanks, railway yards and industrial plants. The four-engine bombers hammered at the city for nine consecutive minutes, and returned home without loss. Allied headquarters announced.

They created such ruin that an official report said, "five hours after the raid the entire port was still so heavily covered by smoke that accurate inspection of the damage was then impossible."

"Later, however," the report stated, "it was learned that all the storage tanks and an oil refinery were ablaze and the 'inner' 'inactive' light cruiser and four supply ships in the harbor were damaged. Little opposition was encountered and all the Fortresses returned safely."

(The Italians admitted "very great" damage at Leghorn and said 175 persons were killed and 300 injured.)

Set Buildings Ablaze

Meanwhile American medium bombers and fighters concentrated on airfields in Sardinia, setting buildings ablaze and pounding dispersal areas, and RAF Wellingtons raided San Giovanni near the toe of the Italian mainland.

Photographs of the Leghorn raid showed "one hit and two damaging misses on the cruiser, and picture interpreters also reported many hits on the oil tanks," the official report said. "Also hit by numerous bombs were the railroad lines leading to the marshalling yards and tracks east of the city, a bridge, sheds, a storage depot or two." Hits were also scored near an iron foundry and torpedo factory.

Nearly 100 fortresses raided Leghorn, 160 miles north of Rome, on May 28 in their longest combat flight from North African bases up to that time.

Medium bombers ranging over Sardinia encountered heavy enemy opposition both from the ground and in the air.

(New attacks upon Reggio Calabria and Messina also were reported by the Italian high command.)

Fighter-bombers flying out of Malta scored hits on two factories and a railway at Licata, Sicily, a British communiqué said, and other planes started a fire at Comiso air-drome.

WLB CREATES NEW RATE FOR LABOR WAGES

Salem, Other Northern Columbiana County Communities Affected

60-CENT CEILING IS APPROVED HERE

Higher Rates Are Considered Stabilized, Regional Office Explains

Ceiling wages ranging from 60 to 70 cents hourly for common unskilled labor were established by the regional War Labor board today in 14 Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia cities, including Salem.

Chairman Lewis M. Gill of the regional WLB said a rate of 60 cents an hour had been set for the Salem, Lisbon, East Palestine and Leetonia, O., labor market areas; 65 cents in the Alliance, Hamilton, Middletown and Ironton, O., Huntington, W. Va., and Ashland, Ky., areas; 67½ cents an hour at Springfield, O., and 70 cents at Ravenna and Kent, O., and Charleston, W. Va.

These represent sound and tested going rates above which the WLB will not approve increases except in unusual cases or in accordance with the Little Steel formula, Gill declared.

Rates Are Ceilings

All rates above these sound and tested rates for common labor are considered stabilized and not subject to change unless it is under the Little Steel formula or to correct substantial conditions. All wage increases, even within the ceilings announced today, still are subject to WLB approval unless otherwise exempted.

"Sound and tested going rates established by the board for particular jobs in a particular labor market area are merely yardsticks the board will apply in making decisions on wage adjustments," Gill reported. "The rates we fix are ceilings. It does not mean, however, that the board will approve wage increases in all cases up to the established rate. These rates are merely the maximum which the board may approve."

Common labor rates ranging from 55 to 70 cents an hour previously were announced for the Canton and Warren areas.

TREASON FIGURES TO GET NEW TRIAL

U. S. Circuit Court Reverses Conviction of Six Chicago Persons

(By Associated Press)

CHICAGO, June 29.—The United States circuit court of appeals reversed today the conviction of six Chicagoans on charges of treason and remanded their cases to the district court for a second trial.

Defendants were Hans Haupt, Otto Wergin and Walter Froehling, who had been sentenced to death in the electric chair, and their wives, Mrs. Erna Haupt, Mrs. Kate Wergin and Mrs. Lucille Froehling, who had each been sentenced to 25 years imprisonment.

They were convicted last Nov. 14, accused of harboring and aiding Herbert Haupt, son of the Haupts, and one of the eight Nazi saboteurs brought to the United States in German submarines last spring.

The opinion reversing their conviction was unanimous.

ONLY TWO EASTERN OHIO MINES IDLE

BELLAIRE, June 29.—All but two east Ohio mines resumed full operations today, virtually ending a work stoppage that dragged out even after United Mine workers leaders ordered a return to the pits a week ago.

John Owens, president of district 6, United Mine Workers, said the mines still idle were Willow Grove and Dungen, and he expressed hope they would be operating shortly.

Miners returning to work today, following meetings yesterday and last night, were Carbondale and 52 in the Hocking valley and two Jones mines in the Muskingum district.

New, Old Food Administrators

Chester C. Davis, left, has been ousted as food administrator to be succeeded by Judge Marvin Jones, right, who was chairman of the recent International Food conference at Hot Springs, Va. Davis, who became food administrator in March, was ousted by President Roosevelt for his refusal to support the administration subsidy program. The President ignored Davis' offer to remain in his post until the 1944 food production program was completed. (International)

Davis, Ousted As Food Chief, Succeeded By Marvin Jones

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, June 29.—Judge Marvin Jones took over today as the third war-time food administrator in less than seven months as the Roosevelt administration let Chester C. Davis go and thus evidenced new determination to put stabilization of prices over all other considerations in the nation's food program.

Jones, an affable Texan with a long agricultural background moved into the job with a record as a staunch supporter of President Roosevelt's policies.

His appointment to replace Davis, who himself was ousted in March to settle differences which had developed among administration officials, was taken to mean future food programs would be cut to patterns designed to provide food at present or lower prices.

This change in food bosses came after Davis had offered his resignation at some near future date with the explanation he did not agree with the policy of putting consumer prices above all other considerations, particularly when it involved the use of subsidies and when consumers have, as he said, excess spending power.

Lacked Full Authority

Davis also said that while he was responsible for meeting food needs other persons were exercising authority over board policies and issuing orders affecting his responsibility.

"There were a large number of participants in the formation of those policies, you know," he said, but he declined to name them.

He likewise declined to comment on Mr. Roosevelt's letter in which the President, after defending the subsidy program, said "it would be unfair to you to insist that you remain in your position when you feel that, all things considered, you cannot wholeheartedly support a program to hold down the cost of living."

It was a reluctance on the part of Davis to resign, Page 8

Health For Victory Session Thursday

Organization of household schedules to help women cope with war-time conditions will be discussed at the Health For Victory nutrition class meeting Thursday night in the Salem High school auditorium.

"Women on Double Duty," will be the lesson theme.

The class, another in the monthly series sponsored by the Lions club, will be in charge of Miss Dorothy Trowbridge, well-known home economist.

Highlights of the July meal planning guide which will be distributed are such topics as "Double duty demands better eating," "How to serve health-building meals on the double-quick," "How to make marketing easier," "Shortcuts to streamline your housekeeping," "Lowcost. Balanced menus for every meal in the month" and 300 tested recipes.

Today's great "army" of women—practically all of them on "double duty"—has the important job of safeguarding the nation's health through nutritious meals and maintaining good morale by "keeping things going right at home," Miss Trowbridge points out.

"Regardless of what 'double duty' may mean to a homemaker, it makes eating right doubly important. More work takes more energy and these busy days it's a problem to find the time to eat right and keep the home shipshape. The object of this Health for Victory meeting is to help homemakers in this area organize their household schedules so that they can do the things they want to do to help win the war, without neglecting their families and the big job of preparing healthful meals."

Great Damage Inflicted, Nazi Source Admits

LONDON, June 29.—The RAF returned in great strength last night to Cologne where 1,000 bombers had blasted 600 acres of destruction in May, 1942, and laid the pattern for the city-by-city razing of German war industry.

In a double-bladed attack, British heavy bombers also struck overnight at Hamburg, submarine building center, and continued the mine laying that official sources announced yesterday had caused the sinking of at least 400 Axis vessels since the war started.

Twenty-five bombers were listed as missing.

Thundering over the scene of the world's first 1,000-bomber raid for the 117th time, the RAF left fires leaping up towards the overhanging clouds.

The German high command, in its regular communiqué asserted that "the Cologne cathedral suffered heavy damage from explosive and incendiary bombs" and that Cologne's population "suffered losses."

The German high command called the Cologne attack "another serious terror raid against residential quarters."

It was the second raid of the month against the great Rhineland industrial center which the Nazis have been reported working avidly to restore. The 1,000-bomber raid was reported to have driven out 2,000 of the city's 800,000 population and wrecked 250 factories.

The German communiqué reported property damage in both Cologne and Hamburg and said 26 of the attacking bombers were shot down. Thickly populated parts of Cologne were said to have been destroyed as a result of a great number of explosive and incendiary bombs.

The official bulletin gave no results of the attack on Hamburg, last hit March 3 and an air target nearly 100 times since the war began.

Attack Channel Shipping

In secondary night sweeps, fighter command aircraft attacked enemy shipping in the channel, damaging one small supply vessel and two escort craft, the communiqué said. At the same time intruder patrols attacked railway targets in France.

Last night's raid was the eighth British assault on German targets in 10 days.

Cologne was the target of the first 1,000-bomber raid on May 30, 1942, when more than 300 acres were devastated in the center of the city straddling the Rhine.

Last night's attack, it was believed, may have delivered almost as great a bomb load because the RAF's latest planes carry a greater weight. Also many of the squadrons in last year's attack were medium bombers.

The twin foray by the British bombers followed up a two-way attack yesterday by strong formations of American flying fortresses on two enemy targets in occupied France—the submarine yards at St. Nazaire and an enemy fighter airfield at Beaumont-le-Roger, 30 miles southwest of Rouen.

Such Allied air blows on the French homeland, the Nazi-controlled Vichy radio declared today in a broadcast recorded by The Associated Press, have made more than 16,000 persons homeless. The report also said that fatal casualties averaged 16 daily from June 25, 1940 to June 21, 1943.

Berlin asserted that 11 of the American four-engine planes were shot down during yesterday's attack. The U. S. Eighth Air Force reported six missing.

High Voltage Wire Kills Newell Boy

EAST LIVERPOOL, June 29.—Harley Simmons, 16, of Newell, W. Va., was electrocuted last night as he touched a 22,000-volt high tension wire felled during a storm, and three companions of the victim were burned in an attempt to rescue him.

Willard DeLong, 17, and William Long, 16, were reported in critical condition and Willard's brother, Frederick DeLong, 16, was burned less seriously. All the injured are of Newell, W. Va.

Coroner Arnold Devon of Columbiana county said the youths noticed a brilliant flash as the high tension wire was struck by lightning and fell, and the four investigated, believing an airplane had crashed.

Hints of Early Invasion

OTTAWA, June 29.—Malcolm MacDonald, British high commissioner to Canada, said today at least 14 enemy submarines had been sunk in the last two weeks and predicted that the Allied assault on Europe would start very soon.

CONGRESS MEETS A CRISIS

Immediate passage of the Connally-Smith bill over President Roosevelt's veto is the most telling blow to New Deal prestige in its decade of national power. The vote to over-ride the veto was soundly representative of congressional and national opinion. It was a sharp rejection of the Roosevelt administration's contention that it alone should determine a proper policy for dealing with organized labor.

Congress—Democrats, Republicans, New Dealers and plain Miscellaneous—is refusing to stay hitched. For many days the members have been showing a disposition to give administration policies a thorough going-over. They have uprooted things marked "Hands Off!" by the executive department. They have been trying to find out why the United States is in a domestic crisis at the climax of its war effort. Majorities in both houses—majorities comprised of skeptics in both parties—are in a mood to force showdowns. Over-riding the President's veto on the Connally-Smith bill, while it is the most important move in the government housecleaning, was not the first, nor is it likely to be the last.

Under sweeping delegations of authority from congress, the Roosevelt administration has had the privilege of running things virtually its own way for the last 10 years. It has moved rapidly from one "emergency" to another, always increasing its scope of executive authority, always wanting more delegations of power to implement those it already had obtained. But now in the greatest emergency of all—war—congress has decided to call a halt. It is recalling some of its delegated authority for review and examination. Specifically, it is recalling the delegation of its authority to pass laws regulating the activities of labor unions.

Off and on the last two years, the house of representatives has considered legislation to curb the unbridled activities of organized labor. All such proposals were undertaken against the wishes of the Roosevelt administration and were consistently blocked by the administration opposition on the score that it retained sole authority for a national labor policy.

Yet the facts are these: We have no national labor policy worthy of the name. The man who made this plain to the President, to congress and to the people is John L. Lewis, who thumbed his nose at the War Labor Board. He revealed that the WLB had no adequate support in law; hence, a law was needed. President Roosevelt wanted one. Congress produced one and the President, at the last minute, rather than take responsibility for this particular law by signing it or letting it become effective without signature, vetoed it.

The Connally-Smith wartime anti-strike law may not be the best that can be written. It may be difficult of enforcement and it may solve few, many or none of the labor problems arising in these critical times. It is, nevertheless, the swift culmination of public impatience and apprehension over the confusion, befuddlement and weakness of the administration in its handling of domestic affairs.

Except for two things, said the President, he would have signed the bill: (1) That section 8, providing a legal method for taking strike votes in a 30-day cooling-off period gives government sanction to strikes should they be voted; and (2) that the prohibition of political contributions has no place in temporary legislation such as this bill but should be made permanent in separate legislation if desired at all.

If, as they may easily be, these parts of the law are weak, they can be remedied by appeal or amendment.

In final analysis, the law is effective only for the duration of the war. Whether it will survive to become part of a peacetime national labor policy remains to be seen. As a war measure, congress and the people have put the administration and such men as John L. Lewis on notice.

TAX TROUBLE BREWING

Tax trouble is brewing over the $5 use tax on automobiles, particularly in eastern states. Owners expected to pay a flat $5 rate to the federal treasury regardless of ability to pay or the circumstances concerning the use of their cars simply aren't showing up at the appointed places to buy their new use stamps. It is worst in the east, where gas rationing is so restricted that many automobiles are virtually out of use.

This is serious, because it borders on settlement of a legislative decision by direct action. The automobile use tax, rushed through congress as an emergency measure and maintained subsequently by nothing more substantial than lack of an alternative, has been opposed strenuously by organizations representing automobile owners. It has been difficult to collect, and in some parts of the country has been generally ignored. Until automobile owners were warned recently of the forthcoming deadline on July 1, many of them assumed the tax had been repealed. Unless something drastic is done, the use tax may go by default.

It is always a dangerous situation when government's ability to carry through a policy is thrown open to doubt. Indifference to the July 1 deadline makes it problematic whether the government can follow through on its decision that every automobile owner in the United States must purchase a $5 use tax stamp.

ACCIDENTAL DEMONSTRATION

Probably more Ohioans who follow football have wasted more time speculating on the results of a game between one of Coach Paul Brown's Massillon high school football teams and an average college team than on any other futile speculation. When Coach Brown landed the coaching job at Ohio State, the speculators were deprived of one of their standard pastimes.

But now, according to Mr. Brown himself, there is going to be an accidental demonstration of what well coached high school boys can do against collegians. His Ohio State team next fall, he promises, will be composed largely of youngsters on the sunny side of 18. They will play most of their schedule against teams of young men of more mature ages.

The day Ohio State's freshmen beat somebody's upper classmen and navy students there will be a chorus of I-told-you-so's rising from Ohio's football fans that will be like the roar of a big wind—providing, of course, that they can do it. That's what the speculators wasted all those years speculating about when Massillon used to claim it had the country's best high school football team.

THE STARS SAY:

For Wednesday, June 30

A PARTICULARLY lively and eventful day, on which plans and projects cleverly developed and promoted may have a safe and enduring quality, of long range benefit to the affairs and fortunes. There may be change, and travel, with agents as well as superiors or elders, the latter particularly friendly and cooperative. While the artistic and intellectual talents may be well stimulated, business and well-established projects should also thrive under properly organized and regulated codes of operation. Sign agreements with precaution.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may work for a year of enduring results by applying versatility, much talent and fine faculties to stimulate static conditions into new action as well as to launch new projects or ideas into thriving and enduring channels. This will assure the substantial and friendly cooperation of elders or superiors needed to put over propositions of scope and solid worth. Change, travel, agents and some degree of flexibility may be required, but sign all agreements with caution. Talents may lie along literary, artistic, musical or professional lines, but business and commonplace pursuits may also flourish. Romance, social and domestic affairs give happiness.

A child born on this day may have great versatility, with literary, artistic and musical skill, as well as sound business or professional abilities. Assistance may be not amiss in curbing restive or erratic moods, or whims or excesses born of a strangely magnetic personality or attractiveness.

Well, between government agencies and the vitamins something just must be done about enlarging the alphabet, as there simply aren't enough letters to go around.

When the public gets to flying around in helicopters after the war, we suppose the main traffic menace will consist of toys and whatnots tossed overboard by the children necessitating us all to wear brass hats.

Italy's German masters should have accustomed it to invasion by this time!

PSYCHOSOMATIC DISORDERS

Mind Plays Big Part In Sickness

BY LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

One of the most distinguished works of science that has ever been published in the United States is William Osler's Principles and Practice of Medicine. The first edition appeared in 1892. A number of laymen have told me that they have read it from cover to cover two or three times and required their children to do so.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

"It fell into my hands in the sixth edition in 1895 when I was a medical student and my copy of that edition is so marked and interlined and interleaved with pasted-up clippings that it is hardly legible. This year the 14th edition dated late in 1942, the 15th anniversary of the first, has just appeared under the editorship of the distinguished Professor Henry A. Christian of Harvard university.

Psychosomatic Disorders

I was surprised on opening this edition to find that the first section dealt with psychosomatic medicine. This is quite a change because in the old days by immemorial tradition every textbook of medicine started out with the discussion of typhoid fever. The change is an indication of the importance which Dr. Christian believes should be attached to this new viewpoint of psychosomatic medicine. Typhoid fever was a disease which everybody once had but it now has been conquered by preventive hygiene. Today I assume the best medical thought believes that more people are suffering from psychosomatic disorders than from anything else.

Psychosomatic is a combination of the Greek word "psyche," which means soul and "soma" which means body. In other words, it is a recognition of the fact that most people are inclined to believe that if they have dyspepsia or constipation or high blood pressure it is a purely mechanical and organic derangement. Psychosomatic medicine says that it is not; that the soul and mind and emotions are just as much deranged as the body in these conditions.

I say that it is an old conception because it is no more than the old idea of constitutions—of the humoral pathology of Hippocrates and Galen. There was the man of phlegmatic constitutions, the man of melancholic temperament, the bilious and the sanguine man, all of whom were subject to certain diseases in which body, soul and mind were equally involved.

One of the difficulties of studying the subject consists in arriving at an idea of what is normality. Some recent authors give the following definitions:

Normal Personality

Emotional Features—A minimum of mental conflict. Satisfactory work capacity. Ability to love someone other than self.

Behavior—Ability to reach a decision without too much stress or delay. Enjoyment of work. No undue fatigue. No need for frequent change. Maintains optimum efficiency. Takes pleasure in social relationships, marital relationships, parental relationships.

Physical Status—Absence of symptoms of neurotic origin.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

L. R.: If one wishing to gain weight quickly, increases his caloric intake by the excessive eating of fats, can this result in an organic disturbance?

Answer: Not unless diabetes is present. Diabetes may be the cause of the original underweight.

V. S.: Is the cultured buttermilk, as sold by city dairies easier to digest than the old-fashioned churned buttermilk? In other words, please describe any benefits from cultured buttermilk. I am in my sixties, work every day in an aircraft plant. Many of the workers are interested in cultured buttermilk since the cafeteria displays it.

Answer: Cultured buttermilk is supposed to have an especial effect on constipation and as an intestinal antiseptic, somewhat more so than old-fashioned churned buttermilk. Otherwise the action is about the same. Both are valuable and neither is harmful.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clendening has seven pamphlets which can be obtained by readers. Each pamphlet sells for 10 cents. For any one pamphlet desired, send 10 cents in coin, and a self-addressed envelope stamped with a three-cent stamp to Dr. Logan Clendening, 235 E. 15th st., New York. THAT MAN IS MINE by May Christie

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

"What was the trouble?" she asked.

"Marriage trouble, you mean?" She nodded. "But this isn't a quiz, so you don't have to tell me."

"Oh, the usual thing. Incompatibility. You go your way, I go mine. The real trouble," he added, "is that she's after more alimony than the old bank-roll can take."

"Downright un-American, if you ask me!" said Ann, ironical again.

"Quite a kiddie, aren't you, my dear?"

"Not usually. It's just the environment."

"What about leaving it, and coming up North for a spell?" he asked.

"That's going too far!"

"Me? Or the distance?"

"Yes to the first. No to the second. I am going North—the end of the week—back to the New York grind. Modelling, of course."

"But you don't have to stay on it, beautiful!"

She rebuked him: "You travel too fast!"

"I'd go to the moon if you'd let me—with you!"

"The moon's the perennial kiddie," she smiled.

"But I mean it. I want you."

She was bored. "Hark to the Voice of Doom, telling me my days are numbered!"

He beckoned a waiter. "Another of the same. Make it two."

"You should mix your beverages or you'll be seeing two moons instead of one," chided Ann. "Who is that female over there—with the bunch of women. The one staring at us?"

He looked around. He turned his head back quickly. She saw that he had reddened.

"Who is it?" she asked.

"If you must have it, that's my erstwhile better half. I thought she was up at Hobe Sound."

Ann didn't fancy being the third corner of anyone's triangle. She'd been a fool to have come here at all!

"And there's a gossip columnist right at the next table! Just my rotten luck!" she lamented.

"No. It's fate. That's what!" he replied.

"I was right about the Voice of Doom! He'll splurge it all over his column. I'll have," said Ann desperately, "to try to stay that pen of his on break his typewriter!"

The famous columnist nodded pleasantly to them as he left the fashionable bar.

"Watch the birdie! Smile!" Roger adjured her.

"He's a carrier pigeon with a spicy item about us tucked under his little wing," she lamented again.

Roger guffawed.

She grimaced: "Viper! Let's go!"

Or no—you stay here and make it up with your wife."

"But I want you with me, beautiful!" he insisted.

"I'll be there! That man has pictures of me in his files!" But she was really worried. She hated being gossiped about—especially in print.

It would drive Jim farther from her, she knew.

"Damn all gossip-columnists!" she thought vexedly.

Later, she was annoyed, but not surprised, to receive an airmailed copy of a New York newspaper with the following item:

"When it comes to his impending divorce, the upstanding Roger T. Upton isn't doing any moaning at the bar! He was with that eye-compelling lovely Ann Foster on Tuesday in Miami Beach, imbibing cocktails. We all know that the fashionable winter resort is famous for its jealous women, but no greener look in the eye than the one that flashed from the handsome orb of Roger's Ex-to-be... who was watching the couple... and were they lovey-dovey! Will wedding bells ring for Ann in the near future, I wonder?"

"This will be on the newsstands there, too!" Ann groaned. "One of my ever-loving friends must have sent me this!"

She read the paragraph that was circled in blue pencil a second time. Nor did it decrease her annoyance that her sister Julia, now in New York, must have read it as well.

"Lovey-dovey," indeed! How dare the columnist exaggerate so? Why she'd no use at all for philandering Roger!

There was still no word from Jim.

"He's through with me," Ann thought.

She allowed Vince to take her to the Dempsey-Vanderbilt for dinner, and afterwards they went on to the Palm Island. That might be chronicled in the local papers, too. But now the fat was in the fire, what did that matter? Nothing could be worse than what had already appeared about her.

Vince was conspicuous in a pale green tuxedo and a green bow tie. He was as keen as any woman on the latest fashion innovation, though unfortunately he didn't have the figure or the air to wear clothes with a dash.

"Lend your ear, honey, to a bit of news!" They were tangoing at the Palm Island, which was crowded.

"I'm giving you a bang-up farewell party tomorrow night on the yacht—a dinner with all the trimmings! I wrote Julia and she'll be there."

She's accepted for you both. As she won't arrive till after nine, dinner will be at ten o'clock."

"That's awfully kind of you, Vince," Ann forced herself to say.

"I meant it to be a surprise," he went on. "I invited the others when I wrote Julia." He looked keenly at her as he added: "I also invited Jim Brent."

Ann's heart did a tailspin as he added: "But...he isn't coming...."

"Funny that Lotus did ditto," he went on. "But we shan't miss them. I guess they have a date together, her old man being back in Lexington...."

"I'm glad you're seeing reason," Julia told her sister as they dressed for the farewell dinner in their apartment on Friday night. "Pen-niless girls don't very often get wealth flung at them. And Vince has quite reformed now. He wrote me that, to please you, he's cut down radically on liquor, and intends to stay that way."

"I didn't exactly notice it," said Ann.

Julia went on: "I'm told there was a piece in the local paper about you and him doing the town together yesterday."

Ann wondered if Julia had seen the New York paragraph?

But no! Julia would certainly have mentioned it if she knew that Ann had been seen and chronicled at the Cascades with Roger Upton.

But Julia seemed to have gotten over her huffiness, and was in happily expectant mood tonight.

As she slipped into the gorgeous gown Vince had won at the War Relief party, Julia said: "I hope Lotus and that stuck-up satellite of hers, Jim Brent, aren't coming to your dinner on the yacht."

"No. Vince did invite them. They refused."

"Ha! I thought the wind blew in that quarter! Lotus is nuts about Jim, though she did flirt with Jinky at the races!"

"I'm not in the least interested," said Ann. "They're welcome to do as they please."

Julia looked extraordinarily handsome in the orchid-and-cerise gown. Vince's second gift to her, the expensive beauty-box from Marks—Park Avenue, similar to Ann's had been waiting for her at the apartment. She had used it artistically now. Her complexion bloomed like a lovely tropical flower. Also she'd had a new hair-do in New York this morning.

"You look darling!" Ann suddenly hugged her, with tears in her eyes. Mixed emotions were surging in her, and not the least of them was love for Julia. Relief, too, that they were reconciled.

After all, in this disappointing and treacherous world, all they had was each other. They must never lose that.

"I'll lend you my silver cloak with the cerise lining," said Ann. "It's just right with that gown."

"Thanks, darling." With a gesture as expert as a trained model's, Julia swirled it about her, proudest thing before the long mirror in their bedrooms. "So I look fetching?"

"And so do you. We're a couple of sirens on the loose!" giggled Julia.

Women Make Good As Steel Workers At Gary, Indiana

BY BENNETT WOLFE

GARY, Ind.—Women have shown the skeptics who laughed a few months ago at the suggestion of female steel workers. In the Gary armor plate plant, an inferno of roaring furnaces and clanging mills, where red-hot steel is fashioned for Army tanks, women are working today alongside the men and in almost equal numbers.

The sogged-and-helmeted girls do just about everything—from taking temperatures of sizzling slabs of steel to operating the big cranes that maneuver six-and-seven-ton hunks of the hot metal through the plant. Women do nearly all the flame-cutting, the process by which the rolled plate is carved into exact-fitting parts to be welded into tanks at other factories.

"The women are doing all right, too," E. N. Yost, superintendent, told reporters who toured the plant at the Army's invitation. "On some jobs they're better. And they'll get even better with experience."

The big plant, which sprawls over 50 acres of sand dunes on the shores of Lake Michigan, is making armor tank plate each month than would have been needed for all the tanks the United States had before Pearl Harbor, according to S. M. Jenks, general superintendent of the Gary works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp.

The steel corporation operates the $50,000,000 plant, which is owned by the Army. Nearby are the company's vast mills, which are humming with war production, processing steel for manifold uses.

The switch to women steel workers has only begun. Jenks said the armor plate plant's employees probably would be 75 per cent women before long. Women are being employed in increasing numbers in the corporation's Gary works, although the percentage, there has not approached that in the armor plate factory. But, with manpower getting scarcer, Jenks said more and more women would have to be used to maintain the corporation's working force of more than 20,000.

The armor plate plant is a striking example of the nation's quick conversion to war production. A year ago the site was nothing but a waste of sand dunes. Contracts for the plant weren't signed until last May. But in less than five months after execution of the contracts, tank armor was rolling from the speedily built plant.

Much of the production doesn't have to go far for welding into tanks.

YOU'RE WRONG! IT'S JUST BECAUSE OF MERCURY!

NO TEARS ARE BEING SHED because of the solemnity of the occasion, as you may have supposed. It was just the boiling mercury that caused Mr. and Mrs. Wallace T. Foote to mop their brows a few moments after they had been married in St. Patrick's cathedral, New York. The groom is mopping beads of perspiration with one hand while a well-wisher grasps the other. The bride, the former Fanny Baldwin, is the daughter of Representative Joseph Clark Baldwin III. (International)

Canada Builds Airfields In Alcan Highway Chain

(By International News Service)

WINNIPEG—The numerous and modern air fields in construction along the Alcan highway will complete a chain up to Alaska.

These fields, linking the States with Alaska, have been extended from Dawson Creek directly into Winnipeg. For each field there are several auxiliary emergency fields, adequately supplied. And located at four chief centers on the highway proper, are well-equipped repair shops and skillfully manned house repair crews ready for any emergency.

Designed to meet both military and civilian demands, the fields represent a planning and building job of which the Dominion is proud and for which it gives all credit due American military engineers for their cooperation and consultation.

Reported Friction Denied

But the dual effort that has made the highway the project of the United States and the air fields and emergency landings that of the Dominion, has been the basis for rumors of friction between Canadians and Americans engaged in the related enterprises.

Authoritative persons on both sides recently denounced these rumors as absurd, attributing them to agitators of Axis sympathy. No proof, they contended, has been found to support the accusation that Canadian workers have been discharged to make room for Americans.

They did admit, though, some protest of the frequent job-shifting by Canadian laborers who prefer to work for the American forces. The explanation offered for this condition is a military rate of pay higher than the civilian rate. Canadian contractors have been able to offer.

Cooperate in Work

Despite the approaching exhaustion of the manpower pool in Canada, both Washington and Ottawa have been careful that competition for labor should not hinder the projects in any way.

To put through the Alcan as quickly as possible, huge military trucks moved in a double line along the highway day and night. The landing fields, with planes operated by both American and Canadian flyers, are the scenes of equal activity.

At a transfer point enroute, where material needed in Alaska is sometimes moved from truck to plane or train, a modern system of railway yards has been built and side tracks put in all the way from Dawson Creek to Edmonton, to facilitate the passing of trains. Even the highways that parallel these 500 miles of rail have been improved to carry heavy military trucks to relieve the rail congestion.

SALEM, Ore.—In the two years since the establishment of the Office of Civilian Defense in Oregon, OGD and the Oregon state defense council have enrolled 186,000 volunteers as air-raid wardens and observers.

DEATH NEAR FOR TRAITOR

DEATH BY HANGING is very near now for Max Stephan, lower right, Detroit restaurant operator and convicted traitor against the United States. Long legal proceedings through the courts had delayed his execution, which originally was scheduled for April 27, but now he is to mount the scaffold in the Milan, Mich., federal penitentiary on July 2. Arrow in photo at top right indicates the scaffold where a previous execution was performed in the prison. Stephan was convicted of having aided the escape from a German prison camp of German Oberleutnant Hans Peter Krug, left. (International)

Theatre

"Gone With the Wind," popular story of the Old South, is playing a return engagement at the State tonight and Wednesday with the leading roles taken by Vivien Leigh and Clark Gable. Olivia DeHavilland and Leslie Howard are cast in leading supporting roles.

Starring Charles Laughton and Maureen O'Hara at the head of a distinguished cast, "The Land Is Mine" gives a graphic picture of the conditions in occupied Europe when Nazi troops take over a small village. The picture will be at the State Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The two celebrities portray a pair of school teachers in the community, and their reactions to the Nazi attempts to Hitlerize the village make for its gripping plot and dramatic climax.

"Cowboy In Manhattan," showing at the Grand tonight and Wednesday, deals colorfully with backstage romance and publicity stunts which very nearly disrupt the opening of a spectacular Broadway musical production. Frances Langford appears as the singing star and complications begin when a young Texas tunesmith, portrayed by Robert Paige, insists upon having two of his compositions introduced in the play.

A double feature, "Carson City Cyclone" and "All By Myself," is billed at the Grand Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

ROCKPORT, Mass.—Yankee ingenuity has solved the farm problem for farmer Roy H. Lane.

Lane, owner of a 60-acre farm, was afraid the cost of planting might be too much for him this year. Finally, he hit upon a novel solution. He sold the not-yet-planted 1943 crop to non-farming neighbors, arranging a 50 per cent payment in advance and the rest on delivery.

Boy, Playing, Hangs Self

CINCINNATI, June 29.—While playing a cowboy game Thomas Wilburn, 13, looped a belt around his neck, hooked it to a bathroom towel rack and hanged himself accidentally, Police Capt. Willard Elbert reported.

Whimsy, Too

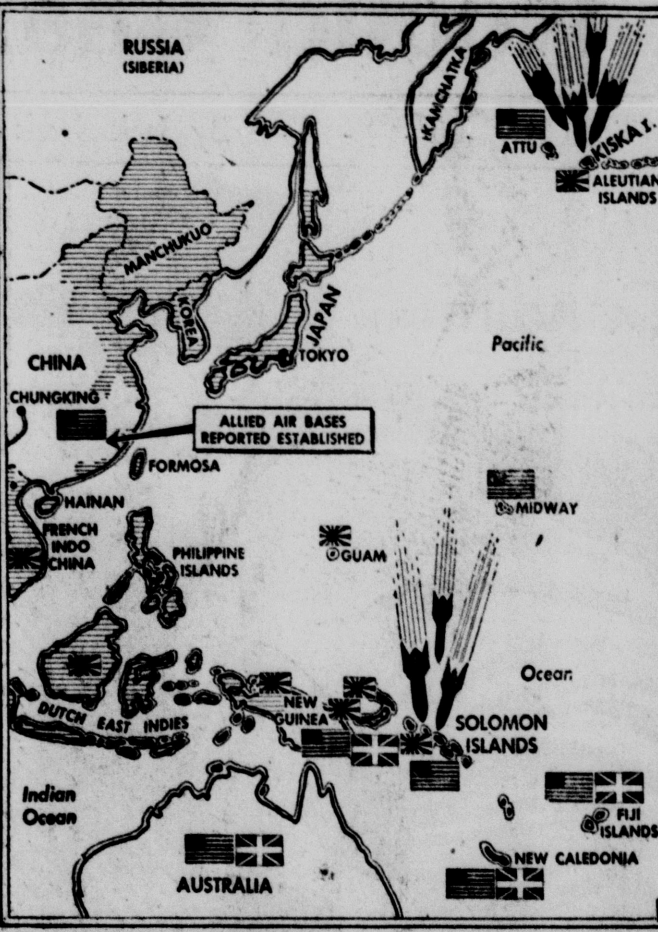

War has not curbed the whimsy of inventors, either. One inventor, after watching rats along the New York waterfront, decided that, like humans, they liked company when they ate. He developed a mirrored rat trap that aims to fool the rodent into believing another rat is safely reaching for the bait.

A patent was issued to a Bronxite who devised an "alarm clock watch" that tickles the wearer at the designated time and reminds him of what he intended to do at that hour.

Polachek says the simpler the idea, the better are its chances of success. One of his clients invented a little wooden "puzzle" boat, with a small hole high in each side and a transparent plastic top. The trick was to get one small ball into each hole. Polachek says the inventor has earned a good living solely with this gadget—and that college departments of physics have used it to prove something or other in their classes.

MONTEBELLO, Cal.—Unfriendly acts sometimes bring their own punishment. G. Newlove was circulating a petition asking that all dogs be confined to the premises of their owners, when a dog at one of the houses where he called promptly bit him. He reported to the police that he already had been turned down by the owner of the dog when the latter added its bit of unfriendly advice.

TO INCREASE PACIFIC AIR BLOWS

WHILE PREDICTIONS ARE MADE that American air power in the Pacific is to be increased considerably very soon, American planes blast Jap bases in both the north and the south. U. S. planes attacked Kiska seven times in one day and also hammered enemy base in the Solomons area. Meanwhile, Axis reports said that the Yanks have established new Chinese bases in Fukien province, as indicated on this map, to bomb Japan itself. (International)

SPORT CHATTER

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
NEW YORK, June 29. — Sgt. Young Kid McCoy figures he ought to know how to whip Jake La Motta in their clash at Detroit tomorrow because he has been training with Ray Robinson, who did it twice.

NAPOLEONIC STRATEGY
Nap Reyes, the Cuban first baseman who finally has bade his way into the Giants' lineup, claims his biggest moment in baseball didn't come from a little thing like hitting a homer with the bases full but from winning an argument with an umpire. Nap, just up from Cuba, got into a dispute with an arbiter last summer. After listening to a few choice Spanish adjectives, the ump remarked: "You're fined fifty dollars." "No savvy," replied Nap, who knew the value of a buck as well as the next guy. "Don't know, never mind." The thrill, says Reyes, was that the umpire fell for the gag and Nap still has the $50.

ONE MINUTE SPORTS PAGE
If Bill came agrees to shift the Hambletonian from Goshen to the Empire City track, chances are that he'll insist on being granted a week there to stage a harness race meet the way he thinks it should be done. Henry P. Grand Circuit Season At North Randall Opens Today

(By Associated Press)
CLEVELAND, June 29.—A $5,000 preview of the $40,000 Hambletonian the Kentucky derby of the trotting and pacing game—is displayed at the neighboring North Randall oval today as the 1943 grand circuit season opens with a 23-day meeting.

Vo'o Song, a stout favorite for the Hambletonian, is billed to cross the wire first in the Matron stake, which has drawn 11 top-drawer three-year-old trotters. The winner will collect $2,466 of the $5,439 purse.

Bill Strang of Brooklyn, N. Y., owns Vo'o Song, the possessor of a 2:03 1/2 mark. The brown son of Volomite is trained and driven by 70-year-old Bill White, who hasn't asked the colt to go faster than 2:06 in his workouts of the last month.

Second choice for the Hambletonian and regarded as the standout threat to Vo'o Song in the Matron is Worthy Boy, 2:05 1/2, the property of Mrs. James B. Johnson, Jr., of

WHIRLAWAY GOING INTO RETIREMENT

Famous Horse To Become Sire of Future Stars Of the Turf

By CHARLES DUNKLEY
CHICAGO, June 29.—Whirlaway is going back home to those picturesque Kentucky pastures to live in peaceful retirement until death. The racing career of the biggest money winner in the history of the sport is ended. Within two weeks he will be shipped to the white-fenced Calumet farm owned by Warren Wright of Chicago to rest completely until next May when he will be used for breeding.

In another two years his sons and daughters may be carrying on his great tradition of victory. The decision to retire the famed five year old chestnut colt was reached in a sympathetic understanding between owner Wright and his trainer, Ben Jones. They decided not to continue racing the Blenheim Bomber for fear his career might terminate in a disgraceful breakdown.

Whirlaway never fully recovered from an injury to his left foreleg suffered in New Orleans last winter. He ran his last race at Arlington park's $10,000 added Equipoise mile at Washington park last Saturday. A crowd of 15,000 which made him a 6 to 5 favorite cheered as they saw him pick up rivals on his last sweep into the stretch, but they quickly sensed that he wasn't going to win by the time the pack reached the last 200 yards. Whirlaway's drive was broken. He finished a struggling fifth.

Jones, who brought Whirlaway to the races and saw him amass a record pot of $561,161.50 in sixty starts, was saddened by the necessity of making this decision.

"The injury is nothing so serious as itself," Jones said today in his Missouri draw. "But Mr. Wright and I just couldn't stand the thought of having him wind up as a cripple, with a big old knot on his leg."

Francis Oumet won the National Open golf championship in 1913 when he was only 20 years old.

EVEN THE UMPIRES WILL PAY TO SEE WAR FUND GAME

Indians, N. York Yankees Will Clash In Cleveland Attraction Wednesday

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, June 29.—Even the umpires must pay to see Wednesday night's Cleveland stadium National War fund game between the Cleveland Indians and the New York Yankees, and the big military show and parade which will precede it.

The Indians' front office announced today the Annie Oakley list has been suspended for the evening. That includes newspapermen, the players, and even the Tribe's president Alva Bradley.

Some 2,500 representatives of various services will take part in the war show, beginning at 7:30 p. m.

The Indians, idle yesterday and today, enter the series even with the Yankees for the season. Cleveland swept the three games on New York's first invasion, then dropped all three on its visit to the east.

Doljack Joins Tribe
The Tribe added its roster to the 25-player limit by signing Frank Doljack, 33-year-old one time Cleveland sandlotter who has been in professional baseball since 1920. He played with the Detroit Tigers some ten years ago, then slipped to Milwaukee and other minor league clubs and stayed out of the game last season.

Doljack is a right-handed hitting outfielder and his main duties probably will be in the pinch-hitting department.

Other major league baseball games tomorrow to aid the National War fund include:

NATIONAL LEAGUE—St. Louis at New York (doubleheader), Cincinnati at Brooklyn (doubleheader), Chicago at Boston (doubleheader), Pittsburgh at Philadelphia (night).

AMERICAN LEAGUE—Philadelphia at St. Louis (night), Boston at Detroit (twilight), Washington at Chicago (doubleheader), combined Washington-Chicago squad plays Great Lakes naval training station in first game.

All-Star Game Set
These games will set off a busy two-week program for both leagues with a heavy holiday schedule awaiting all clubs this weekend and the annual All-Star game coming up at Philadelphia two weeks from tonight.

The only activity in the majors yesterday was a night game at Pittsburgh with the Pirates pumeling the Cincinnati Reds 7-1. All clubs are idle today.

Clean Up Japs First

NORTH CAMP POLK, La.—Pvt. Yemey Lew skipped out of Tai-chang, China, 45 minutes ahead of the Japanese invaders in 1939. Now he says "the Japs got a lot to learn from me. I like to get some of them and then go home."

Pvt. Lew made his way to America with his father and brother, and until March 18, when he was inducted into the Army, ran a laundry at Port Washington, N. Y.

FRIENDS LOSE TO SHEENS, 14 TO 11

An eight-run spurt in the fifth inning enabled Sheens to defeat the Friends, 14 to 11, in a Class B league slugfest at Centennial park last evening.

Sheens accounted for 17 hits and the Friends 13 hits in the game which saw the churchmen leading 8 to 5 at the end of the fourth. The Friends added three runs after the Sheens' big inning but went scoreless in the sixth and seventh.

REDS AND DODGERS CLASH WEDNESDAY

BROOKLYN, June 29.—The Cincinnati Reds rolled in here today prepared to battle the Brooklyn Dodgers a doubleheader tomorrow.

The Reds are not too well sent, however, with their two loudest offensive guns, Little Lonnie Frey and Big Frank McCormick, on the sidelines because of injuries.

Last night the Redlegs played a one night stand at Pittsburgh and came out on the short end of a 7 to 1 score.

George Weiss, head of the Yankee farm system, recently celebrated his 48th birthday.

Indians Get Sulfa Drug. Give Up Medicine Man

FORT HALL, Idaho — Progress made by the federal government in furnishing medical care for its Indian wards in the last 15 years "has been amazing," says Supt. C. L. Graves of the Fort Hall reservation.

He said that sulfa drugs have been "a godsend for our Indians."

"Sulfa has been the means of practically eliminating the scourge of trachima," Graves said. "It is marked how the Indians have drifted away from their ancient rituals for healing the sick."

Track Walker Completes 28 Years In River Tunnel

WINDSOR, Ont.—William MacMullen of Windsor spent 28 years walking back and forth in the Detroit river tunnel while employed by the Michigan Central railroad. When he retired this month, he had hung up the following records:
Walked a total of 128,500 miles underground, a distance equal to five times around the earth at the equator.
Made eight trips a day through the tunnel, 364 days a year — 365 days in each of seven leap years he worked—with only 30 days off since 1915. (He was ill two days during that period).
Crossed the border between the United States and Canada 81,520 times and never had been asked to show his passport.

Prevented Wrecks
MacMullen, a slender Irish-born Canadian, whose hair has turned white on the job, worked twelve hours a day. When he was hired in 1915, he was told that his job carried with it the responsibility for preventing accidents in the tunnel.
He took the company at their word, and during his career discovered 40 to 50 cracked rails, and had them replaced before a wreck occurred. Once he found a 10-year-old boy glued to the electric third rail and had the power turned off in time to save him.
Wearing a miner's lamp and the railroad man's overalls, MacMullen would carefully make his way up and down the length of the dark tunnel, which is used to carry freight and passengers under the Detroit river, the boundary between the United States and Canada.

He would tap the rails with a hammer to see if they were sound. "A cracked rail sounds like a cracked dinner plate when it's tapped—dull," he explains.
'Partner' Killed Twice
His workday started at 6:30 a. m. He would walk the length of the tunnel in an hour and a half, and come back through a twin tube which parallels the first. Meantime, his "partner" would walk through the other tube. Twice during the 28 years he found his "partner" dead in the tunnel, struck by trains.
"It has been a good job," MacMullen said reflectively. "I like the tunnel. I wanted a steady job, and this has been steady. A lost day is a lost hole in a man's life, you know."
"I'm not going to sit still, from now on, even though I am retired. I am afraid my constitution would not stand it."

MacMullen said he would keep "busy" by doing a lot of walking.

Assignments Made As Convention at Lakeside Comes to Close

(By Associated Press)
LAKESIDE, June 29.—The Northeast Ohio conference of the Methodist church closed yesterday after delegates took no action on a resolution proposing disapproval of Congress' action in passing the Smith-Connally anti-strike bill.
The resolution, which termed the bill "discriminatory, discriminatory, and aimed at a group of people who are doing a great work," was tabled after conference members decided they were not well enough informed to act on it.

Rev. Joseph Cleland of Medina reported on the conference sustentation fund and recommended an annual increase from $1,200 to $1,400 in the base for supplemental support for lower salaried, married ministers.

The election of Dr. Paul Carter, Steubenville district superintendent, completed the delegation to the 44th jurisdictional conference. Named as alternates were Dr. E. R. Romig of Alliance, Rev. A. T. Cox of Lorain, Rev. Clarence LaRue of Canton, Rev. L. E. Rush of Mount Gilead and Dr. Carl Meister of Tyra.

County Changes Made
The conference will return to Lakeside in 1944.
Among the changes in the ministerial appointments were:

Make It Last Your Home

BY VIVIAN BROWN
AP Feature Writer

Many of the little household articles that have gone to war are going to be difficult to replace. It is an advantage to keep them all in tip-top shape.

There are many uses for wax to help preserve these articles for the duration.

An occasional wax treatment for the porcelain surfaces of your electric washer or gas stove will help keep them gleaming.

A wax dressing and preservative for rubber surfaces will help retard oxidation and preserve the original beauty of rubber and can be used on the garden hose, tire walls, running boards and rubber mats of the car.

Your luggage, belts, book bindings, desk sets, hand bags, cushions and brief cases can all be helped by wax which acts as a lubricant, keeping leather soft and pliable.

Hunting and fishing equipment need special care now, since bamboo is no longer being imported from the Orient. The rod should be hung up in a place that is neither too cold nor hot and given a good coat of wax.

The stock and barrel of your favorite rifle as well as tennis racquets, golf bags, golf clubs and billiard cues should be waxed.

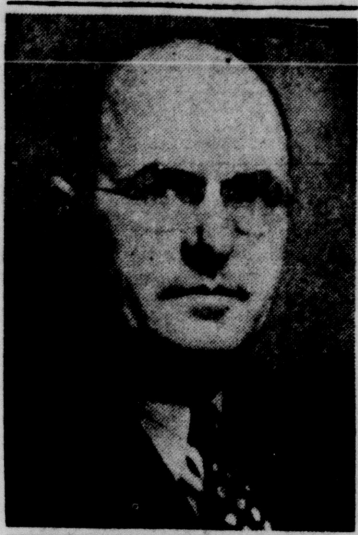

Wax the walls in the kitchen behind stoves and sinks to protect them from grease and water stains. Parchment shades and venetian blinds, newly polished brass, pewter and copper ware can all be protected against the corrosive action of air and keep their brightness much longer, if waxed occasionally.

Peace Maker Victim In Akron Shooting

AKRON, June 29—Charles Reiter, 50-year-old technician at the B. F. Goodrich Co., was shot fatally today as he attempted to protect a woman manacled by her estranged husband as she left her job at the rubber plant, Police Captain Stephen McGowan reported.

The shooting occurred in front of the main gate at the Goodrich plant during change of shifts.

McGowan said Reiter was struck in the chest by a bullet from a revolver as he interceded in a quarrel between Mrs. Helen Di Giammerino, 31, and her husband, Clement, 41. Mrs. Di Giammerino, who separated from her husband June 3, was leaving the rubber plant as her husband drove up and started to argue with her, the police captain added.

Reiter ran to the woman's side, grabbed her arm and told her to "stand aside. I won't let him hurt you."

McGowan quoted Mrs. Di Giammerino as saying she heard a gun report, then saw Reiter fall to the sidewalk, her husband drove over the sidewalk to avoid a crowd of workers, struck and slightly injured a pedestrian and eluded police, the officer reported.

State Seeks Bids On Two Road Projects In County

LISBON, June 29—Improvement of two state highways in Columbiana county are contemplated by H. G. Sours, state director, in seeking bids which will be opened at his office Tuesday, July 13. A part of eight proposals to be let as one contract, the two jobs in this county include:

The improvement of 3.96 miles of Route 154 in Elkrun township by applying a bituminous treatment to the 20-foot roadway, and the similar improvement of 6.76 miles of Route 39, the Salineville-Wellsville road in Washington and Yellow Creek townships.

Busy Man!

BUSY HALF HOUR was put in during a bombing raid over St. Nazaire, France, recently by Sgt. Maynard H. Smith of Cairo, Ill., who is credited with saving the lives of crewmates and his Flying Fortress. While some crew members bailed out from the plane, set afire by ack-ack, Smith applied first aid to a wounded man, helped another to escape, fought off attacking planes, using one machine gun after another. When the heat started to explode his ammunition, he beat out the fire, practically with his bare hands, and enabled the pilot to return the Fortress safely to its base. This is an official U. S. DAVIS IS OUSTED AS FOOD LEADER

Judge Marvin Jones named As Administrator By President Roosevelt

of Secretary of Agriculture Claude R. Wickard to operate under the setup against which Davis objected that led to Wickard being replaced as the first food administrator.

Controversies over food policies have marked administration war programs since the beginning. At the bottom of many of them has been the question of farm and retail prices. When the first price control law was being debated in Congress, Wickard urged that the official responsible for production—the secretary of agriculture—should have control of prices. He argued that price was a delicate mechanism which could be used to encourage or discourage production.

Approves One Agency
President Roosevelt and Congress took a counter view, holding that control of all prices should be centered in one agency, the Office of Price Administration (OPA).

Friends of Davis emphasized from the outset he would not continue in the job unless he received the authority which he regarded as necessary to carry it out properly.

Perhaps the development that influenced Davis most strongly to step aside was the inauguration, without his knowledge or approval, of the price roll back and subsidy program on meats, butter and coffee—a program which has encountered determined opposition by the farm state members in congress.

Aside from his belief that such subsidies will be ineffective in controlling inflation unless accompanied by taxes and savings to draw off excess earnings, Davis objected, aides said, because he feared they would have a discouraging effect upon production of affected commodities.

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Harry Bridges, the West coast labor leader under orders of deportation to his native Australia, was not allowed to visit the North American Aviation plant in company with President Philip Murray of the CIO and the latter's entourage. The Army intervened ruling that an alien, not sponsored by his embassy at Washington, could not visit such a plant.

Weather Chief Looks Up "Year Without Summer"

INDIANAPOLIS — The sudden spurge of heat after a cold, rainy spring and the consequent muttering about "it's going to be a blistering summer" caused J. H. Armstrong, Indianapolis weather bureau chief, to look up the history of "the year without a summer."

That was in 1816, and Chauncey Jerome, a historian, took time out to record such phenomena as temperatures of 37.5 degrees in August, 33 in June and 43 in July.

"My wife brought some clothes in today that had been spread on the yard the night before," Jerome wrote on June 10. "They were frozen stiff as in winter."

His book said that the whole world was affected by the unnatural cold. He said some called the year "poverty year" because crops were damaged so badly, while others, who had to eat fish and wild game, called it the "Mackerel Year."

There was snow, blizzards and frost in June, July and August during that summer of 127 years ago.
